GSBS Faculty Judges Needed
for GSBS Student Research Day!

This year’s GSBS Student Research Day (GSRD) offers several opportunities for faculty to serve as judges. This is a great way for new or junior faculty to meet students and get involved. Judges will receive faculty membership credit for their service. Here are the options:

- Oral Presentation Skills Competition (5 judges are needed)
  Judges are needed to electronically review and rank 11 applications before GSRD. The top 5 students selected will give oral presentations in the finalists competition at GSRD. The application consists of the student’s CV, lay research abstract, statement on the importance of oral presentations, and two letters of recommendation. The review will be done at the faculty member’s convenience between May 3 and May 22.

- Poster Session
  - Teams of 3 judges each will speed-judge assigned posters during the GSRD poster session on Thursday, June 27 from 11:00 am – 2:30 pm (~40 faculty judges are needed). The assignments will not be discipline-specific – in addition to other criteria, students will be judged on their ability to explain their work to a non-expert.
  - “Feedback Faculty” are needed to give students informal real-time advice on their poster presentations (at the student’s request) during the pre-GSRD student/faculty reception on Wednesday, June 26 from 5:00-6:00 pm (~25 faculty judges are needed). Judges will have the discretion to give “honorable mention” awards to student posters.

To volunteer, click here – please feel free to sign up for more than one event! We will contact you well in advance to tell you whether you have been chosen to be a judge.

Questions? Contact Brenda Gaughan or Dr. Bill Mattox. Thank you very much!