Racism: A Public Health Crisis

Key Note Speaker: Keisha Ray PhD

When: November 4, 12-1:00 PM
Where: Zoom 827 1983 2762
Password: 524337

Dr. Keisha Ray was awarded her PhD in philosophy from the University of Utah and now works as an assistant professor at the McGovern Center for Humanities & Ethics, and an associate editor and regular contributor to the American Journal of Bioethics of Bioethics blog site. Her work focuses on social and cultural determinants of Black health, integrating race into medical school education and an interest in biomedical research ethics.

Follow her on Twitter @DrKeishaRay

Follow our Instagram at @ambr_gsbs or join our mailing list gsbs_amber@uth.tmc.edu to get informed on upcoming events.